

Energisation and revitalisation

BestWater's Jungbrunnen systems use the process of nano-filtration to free your tap water from almost all contaminants and all kinds of germs. In addition to carrying substances, water also carries information and energy. This can actually be seen with the help of an electron microscope.

Consequently, the energisation of the water is an important step towards the further improvement of the quality and bio-availability of the purified water. Information related to harmful substances that is stored in the high-purity water is overlaid with information that returns the structure of the original spring water to the drinking water created in this manner. This information also gives the drinking water its invigorating and vitalising powers.

- BestWater's high-performance energisation system encompasses the following 10 energisation methods:
- Biophoton frequency 10¹³ Hertz
 - Berg cristall
 - Glass generators with the information contained in the healing waters of Lourdes, Fatima and Mecca
 - Stainless steel reel for swirled water
 - Bovis generator
 - Zeolite mineral
 - Frequency spectrum of sunlight (seven-colour spectrum of the rainbow)
 - Amethyst gemstones
 - Coral sand from the Caribbean
 - Glass generator for unloading of radioactivity

BIOPHOTON-ENERGISATION

A few decades ago, the biophysicist Prof. Dr Fritz-Albert Popp discovered that living cells emit a very weak light beam consisting of so-called photons. Since these photons are only emitted by living cells, he called them 'biophotons'. These biophotons have a very high natural frequency of 10¹³ Hz (10 billion vibrations per second). The stronger the photon beam, the healthier and more viable the cell. A healthy and viable human being possesses enough of this energy to light up a 100-watt light bulb.

If this energy is weakened, it exerts an influence on the effectiveness of organs and tissues, which in turn manifests itself at the physical level in the form of 'diseases'.

The state of order and the water balance of the living cell are interlinked. This can be recognised, for example, from the fact that nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy can differentiate between normal tissue and tumour tissue, since cancerous tissue contains a much larger quantity of water.

THE BERG CRYSTAL FROM AUSTRALIA

The berg crystal is a light-bringer. It exerts a stark cleaning effect on blood vessels, veins and coronary vessels. It encourages the flow of blood, is beneficial to the glands and regulates the production of red and white blood corpuscles. Apart from that, it also exerts a calming effect on the nervous system. The berg crystal protects and cleanses our aura, dissolves blockades in our body and gives us a lot of energy. A berg crystal can be used to prepare palatable drinking water from tap water that has been filtered at the molecular level. This can be done by keeping a large berg crystal in a mug overnight. This water cleanses the entire body and has a strong energising effect.

Crystal, zeolite and amethyst enhance well-being

GLASS GENERATOR (quartz sand, iron, berg crystal)

Within the context of operational research, we developed glass generators in the form of little tubes, which exhibited a variety of oscillation patterns. The following pieces of information are modulated vis-a-vis the energy field of the little tube:

- Original healing vibration of the healing springs of Lourdes, Fatima and Mecca
 - Vibrations of the full light spectrum of sunlight
 - Optimisation of the oxygen-binding in the water
 - Turbulence of the water
 - Optimisation of the positively and negatively charged ions
 - Tachyon energy
 - Oscillation patterns of the amethyst, sodalite and other berg crystals
- All these oscillation patterns result in a drink that regenerates cells.

STAINLESS STEEL REEL FOR TURBULISATION OF THE WATER

In order to roll back the process of the energy-related devalorisation of the tap water, the 'turbulisation returns energy' system of the natural flow of water is copied, and a spiral is used to make the water rotate. This process returns the water's energy to it. Consequently, it can be absorbed and exploited better by human beings, animals and plants.

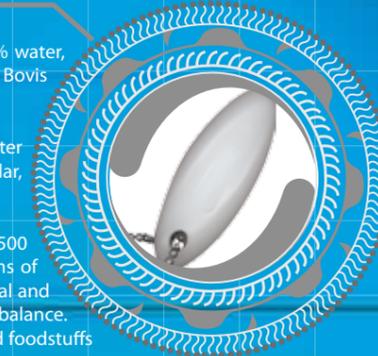

Tests have proven that swirled water tastes better. All natural systems, whether they be whirlpools, typhoons or systems belonging to the animal kingdom (the skin of sharks, the scales of fish or the feathers of birds) generate vortexes, which in turn produce subtle deflections. For example, in case of condors, these deflections are so wide-ranging that the bird can fly for several hours without flapping its wings even once. This is achieved through an optimal utilisation of the wind and the vortexes created by the flying apparatus. The turbulisation of the BestWater water imitates this effect.

BOVIS GENERATOR

The composition of a special high-end synthetic material features 2.8% water, which is stored at the micro-fine level. This water was energised by a Bovis generator. This was achieved by optimising the molecular arrangement.

The synthetic carrier material passes on the information stored in the water to the water and the matter containing water. This creates a molecular, bottom-up chain reaction.

The optimal value for the human body is defined as a level containing 6500 Bovis units. At this level, human beings are perfectly balanced, in terms of energy. Under such circumstances, the organism can function in an ideal and effective manner. Our current living conditions can disturb the energy balance. In addition to hiding hazards and risks, harmful substances in water and foodstuffs

Ideal for human beings, animals and plants and chemical additives also result in the provision of an insufficient quantity of energy to the body.

This often manifests itself in the form of physical and psychological ailments. The Bovis generator makes it possible to enhance the energy status. The energy value of the Bovis generator contains ca. 90000 Bovis units. Tap water, on the other hand, contains ca. 1000 Bovis units. In fact, it often drops far below this level, and can even reach the negative range.

ZEOLITE MINERAL

Zeolites, of which there are about 150 different types, are water-bearing framework silicates. They are broken down in quarries into large blocks and mechanically processed. These zeolites contain water bound in crystals (up to the level of 14 percent). Millions of years ago, this water was embedded in the rocks. Consequently, this water has not yet come into contact with harmful substances and pollutants that change and strain water in a variety of ways.

The most valuable zeolite, which is also used in BestWater's Jungbrunnen systems, is the so-called clinoptilolite. Thanks to its porosity, this zeolite has a large surface area: One gram possesses a contact area of 60 square metres for the right kind of water.

Clinoptilolite is also used in the medical sector to divert ammonium and heavy metals.

THE SEVEN-COLOURS-SPECTRUM

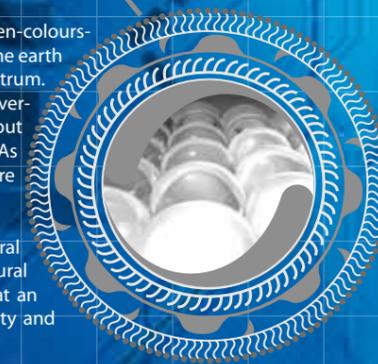

The natural light spectrum of sunlight, which is also called the 'seven-colours-spectrum', is part of the overall cosmic frequency spectrum. All life on the earth emerges, develops and exists in a frequency range of this light spectrum. This frequency range lies in the range of 390 to 780 nanometres. Ever-expanding technological progress does bring us many easements, but its frequency patterns usually lie outside the natural light spectrum. As a result, we are permanently deprived of vital energy and our lives are placed under an increasing amount of strain.

Thanks to BestWater's energisation technology, the water's natural primeval information (which corresponds to the influence of natural sunlight) is restored to it. It returns to the water the information that an organism needs in order to be able to consistently enhance its vitality and existence.

The natural resonant frequencies found in the phase in which the water is re-processed using BestWater's energisation technology result in the re-creation of the natural parameters in the water's energy spectrum. Our entire hormonal balance is regulated, and it reacts to the vibration behaviour of the light. Since we spend more than 90% of our lives in artificially-lit spaces, the resultant health-related effects become more and more serious. This lends an ever-increasing amount of significance to the water vitalised using the high-performance energisation module.

AMETHYST GEMSTONE

It is generally accepted that the amethyst exerts a relaxing influence on the body and the mind. It strengthens the powers of concentration and enhances inner peace at the emotional, intellectual and mental levels.

Unloading radioactivity from the water

In order to sidestep the consequences of external sensory overloads or emotional stress, the amethyst should be able to filter out the important from the unimportant without losing the necessary overview. In order to produce a good mental effect, the amethyst should not be too dark. In case of doubt, a shade too bright would be preferable. When it comes to gemmology-related utilisation, the natural healing cracks should be plain to see - especially when the situation revolves around mental effects. At the mental level, the amethyst should produce a soothing effect.

GLASS GENERATOR "Unloading of radioactivity"

As a result of the Fukushima nuclear disaster, large quantities of radioactive material contaminated the air, the soil and the water.

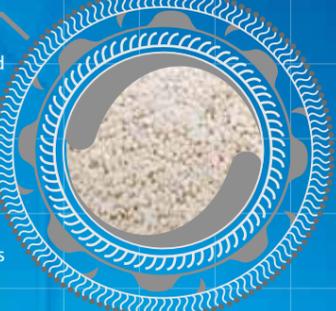

Water is the element that distributes natural as well as disruptive information across the earth. Consequently, the radioactive disruptive information was rapidly distributed throughout the whole world. Along with the seawater, groundwater and drinking water was soon fully-loaded with radioactive information. Humans and animals rapidly developed symptoms ranging from weakness, restlessness and cardiac troubles to tachycardia, skin rashes, itches, thyroid gland disorders and other glandular disorders, all of which manifest themselves in the form of a feeling of being pushed.

The homoeopathic treatment of patients over the period of time ranging from the immediate aftermath of the Fukushima disaster to the present day has demonstrated that the curative responses to the administered drugs are either severely delayed or absent altogether. Intense research work has established that the treatment-blockages are dispelled when the patients receive a 'basic treatment' against radioactivity. Shortly after treatment of this nature has been received, the patients recover their 'normal' responsiveness. Such situations do not involve treatment that is directed against a material poison. Rather, they relate to the dispelling of a response-blockade. It has turned out to be necessary to remove radioactive information from the fluid balance of every single life-form. This restores the energy flow of the human being in question (or that of the animal in question) and leads to the re-attainment of dynamism and vitality.

These experiences make it necessary to act in an efficient manner, and formed the basis for BestWater's decision to equip its Jungbrunnen66 series with a module designed to free the water from radioactive disturbances. Consequently, several human beings, animals and plants can convert the energy-blockades that emerged as a result of radioactive information into life-dynamics by drinking BestWater.

CORAL SAND FROM THE CARIBBEAN

Coral sand or the sandy coral fossils pertain to the shredded, fossilised skeletons of hermatypic or reef-building corals in a tropical or sub-tropical marine area that feature a large number of pores. The coral sand that occurs in nature or the coral sand that is heat-treated after a certain amount of the salt-content has been removed through a washing procedure can consequently absorb fine particles that float in water, break up substances that are in the water and remove them from the water. In particular, when the coral sand is heat-treated, the size of the pores increases from ca. 10 micrometres to 50 micrometres. Furthermore, the coral fossils or coral sands inhibit the growth of bacteria.

Feel as good as new after a sip of BestWater!

All in a single module

First in the world

The Jungbrunnen systems with new energisation

THE ENERGISATION TECHNOLOGY EXERTS MANY POSITIVE EFFECTS ON YOUR LIFE AND WELL-BEING:

- Enhancement of personal well-being
- Well-adjusted energy balance
- Enhanced capacities vis-a-vis the daily routine, professional activities and sports
- Safe, unburdened drinking water for the whole family
- Safe, bacteria-free preparation of baby food and organic food
- More enjoyable eating and drinking
- Soothing personal care
- Soft, lime-free water for the household and commercial operations; it protects all water-bearing electrical devices and lines
- Top-quality water for household pets, aquariums and plants

All the components of the 10-fold energisation system have now been incorporated into a single module, in order to give the tap water back its energising and vitalising powers after it has been purified through the process of reverse osmosis. By the time the water has been purified using the reverse osmosis process, it has lost much of its energy potential. At this stage, it passes through the high-performance energisation module (HE module) before it is withdrawn. The HE module contains the biophoton energisation system, a berg crystal, a glass generator with the original healing vibrations of the Lourdes, Fatima and Mecca waters, a stainless steel reel that creates swirled water, a Bovis generator, a zeolite mineral, a glass generator with the seven-colours-spectrum of sunlight, an amethyst gemstone, a glass generator that removes radioactivity and coral sand from the Caribbean. When the water flows through all these components, it gets vitalised, becomes resonant with the human body and exerts a harmonising influence. You will immediately be able to spot the difference between it and conventional water!

OPTIMAL WATER PURIFICATION AND WATER ENERGISATION THROUGH THE BESTWATER TECHNOLOGY

BestWater offers you a water-treatment system based on reverse osmosis. This process makes it possible to remove up to 99% of the substances contained in the water, such as pathogens, bacteria, heavy metals, drug-residues, radioactive particles etc. Thanks to the unique combination of various components, information related to harmful substances is overlaid in a reliable manner, and the purified water is raised to the energy level of an artesian spring. The high-purity and energy-rich water has a soothing influence on your body, and can exert a positive effect on your general well-being.

ENERGISED WATER

After it has been cleaned using a molecular filter, the water passes through several natural bio-physical processes in the energisation module. As a result, the water regains its original vitality. At this stage, the inner structure of the water corresponds to the vibrational structure of spring water molecules.

10-fold energisation

Healthy and energy-rich water - of the kind that emerges from an artesian spring - cannot be compared to water from pipes. This fresh and precious spring water often comes from depths of several hundred metres, and needs thousands of years' before it reaches the surface. With an oscillation frequency of 1013 Hertz, this water has the same bio-resonance as the oscillation energy that regulates our cell functions. This biophoton energy activates our somatic cells and protects them from serious negative influences exerted by our environment. Consequently, it is ideally suited for the purification of cells and the body.

JUNGBRUNNEN 66-00
In case of the Jungbrunnen 66-00, the tap water is treated in the pre-filter system at the beginning of the purification process. In the sediment filters, it is cleansed of suspended solids and coarse particles. The activated carbon filter binds the gases dissolved in the water. The processed water then reaches the molecular filter, where it is freed from all impurities through the process of reverse osmosis. The water is pressurised and pressed through a multi-layered and fine-pored membrane. This membrane's pores are so small that only water molecules can pass through them. The larger molecules are retained by the membrane, with a rejection rate of up to 99% and beyond. They are then channelled into the run-off. The purified water passes through the high-performance energisation module and reaches the pressure container for the supply.

JUNGBRUNNEN 66-10 / 66-11
The water that streams into Jungbrunnen 66-10 and Jungbrunnen 66-11 is prepared, in the pre-filter system, for the water purification process. The activated carbon filter binds the gases dissolved in the water. Both sediment filters remove coarse particles and suspended solids from the water, so that the fine pores of the membrane remain untouched. The water then reaches the molecular filter, where it is freed from all impurities through the process of reverse osmosis.

After the reverse osmosis purification process has been completed, the water is in its purest chemical state. However, it still carries the information related to the harmful substances with which it was previously connected. This is why it flows through two energisation modules before it is withdrawn. These are the high-performance energisation module and the aqua-lith crystal energy module. Both modules give the water back its energising and vitalising effect, and the water gains the flavour of fresh spring water.

This brochure was presented to you by:

Water filter and healthcare systems www.BestWater.de

